This piece, made with photocollage (a fusion of photographic elements) and painting on card, is a reflection of the constant interaction between painting and photography which gives rise to many different representations and interpretations.

The artist opens a window through which we delve into life, by means of the mixture of found objects that produces surprising effects and creates an almost surreal atmosphere.

His work is like life: a unity of fragments, a sum of ideas, images, moments and memories.

Would you like to be poets of time?

You could make a pictorial composition made up of images, personal photographs, word clippings, cuttings of textures and/or fabrics.

You could include drawings, as well as mounds of paints and experiment by scraping on top of them – you could cover the images and/or photographs with paint and then scrape on top of them or drag the paint with a spatula.

In the image you can see the artwork S/T (Untitled) by the artist Pep Duran, made between 2009 and 2012.

Materials:

A piece of card or cardboard (any kind of stiff base) upon which you can paste images, photographs, words, cuttings of textures or fabrics. Any kind of paints, scissors, a spatula and glue.

There you go!
